LESSON 3: REDDIT GROWTH STRATEGY

Reddit is not a main platform. It is a multiplier. Reddit works best as an opportunistic traffic source. Not as a main platform. But as a multiplier when a post hits the right audience.

Reddit is slow, strict, and heavily moderated. Most subreddits do not allow promotion and remove content quickly. But only if the account looks fake, rushed, and natural. A good Reddit account does not look like a model account. It looks like a normal user who belongs to a niche.

Profile Setup

- Username: cute or quirky, no sexual terms
- Bio: short, personality-driven, no links during warmup
- Avatar: use your AI model's face
- The fan should feel like they discovered you inside their own community

Subreddit Targeting

- Find niche subreddits that match your persona's aesthetic
- Read each subreddit's rules before posting anything
- Start with SFW subreddits only
- Target subreddits with 50k-500k members (sweet spot for visibility)
- Join 10-15 relevant subreddits

Warmup & Karma Farming

- Spend 7 days building karma before posting your own content
- Comment on popular posts with genuine, helpful replies
- Upvote and engage naturally
- Post memes or relatable content in non-model subreddits
- Need ~100 karma minimum before most subreddits allow image posts

Posting Phase

- Post 1-2 images per subreddit per week maximum
- Titles should be casual, not promotional: 'felt cute today' not 'check me out'
- Respond to every comment on your posts
- Rotate subreddits — don't spam the same one
- One viral Reddit post can drive hundreds of profile visits

REDDIT RULE

Reddit users hate self-promotion. If your account looks like it exists only to post images, you will be downvoted and banned. Blend in first, post second.
